DEDICATION

THE problem of a dedication for this yearbook is upon us again. To whom should we dedicate? And why?

For the first few years of CCHS history the matter of dedication was not so much of a problem. The faculty was younger then, and we waited expectantly for the announcement of the one or possibly two faculty members who were old enough to retire, or for one of our acting principals to hand the reins to his successor; or for one of our teachers to go on to a higher post. Then, we would step in with the proper sentiments for a service well done or with best wishes in the new job. Our dilemma was resolved.

But times have changed. Columbus will soon be twenty-five years old, and many of our teachers retire each year. For the last two years we had to write group dedications, trying not to slight those who were retiring and those who were going on terminal leave.

This group dedication, with a small paragraph for each teacher, was not, we feel, a success. For one thing, it made us realize how our bones were creaking with the passing years, and visions appeared of our own number coming up with the pleasant and yet dreadful word, "Next." Furthermore, such a dedication, to retiring ones only, seemed by its very nature to slight the fact that the future of Columbus should really be our major concern.

Therefore, this book is dedicated to the spirit of change and progress for which Columbus stands, for which the new electronic "beep" is a symbol.

We will soon be twenty-five years YOUNG. Look around you. A large percentage of our teachers consists of young people in their twenties. They are the ones who will carry on our tradition. And this is not meant as an affront to our veterans of the teaching world who will still guide our destinies and add leaven to the loaf—or, forgive the pun—to the staff of our lives.

Do you think we are talking in vagaries? Do you think we are equivocating, trying merely to fill a page? Nothing could be farther from the truth. Under the able leadership of Mr. Kolvezon, the morale of Columbus students has soared to an all-time high. As the quarter-century mark approaches, we would be dull indeed if we could only hark back to the good old days, although they were important, too.

We stand for a moment, in not so silent tribute, to the wonderful past that Columbus has been for you and for other graduates over the years—and to their teachers; and we dedicate ourselves in and out of school to our new teachers and to the perpetuation of that intangible but very strongly evident Spirit—the Spirit of Columbus.

PRINCIPAL'S MESSAGE

Carved in marble on the National Archives Building in our nation's capital is the inscription "The Past is Prologue." This sentence never fails to impress all who read it because of the fundamental truth contained therein. Our nation's future as well as its present is an outgrowth of all that occurred in the past. The principles of democracy proclaimed by our statesmen of yesteryear have not only contributed to our strength as a nation, but have also established the potential for greatness well into the future.

As you embark on new pathways, remember that the years ahead will be filled with unlimited opportunities for success. For you the past has been devoted primarily to secure a sound education, to build desirable attitudes and to acquire effective work-study habits. All that you have achieved at school during the past twelve years should contribute toward achieving your future goals. However, the future of today, soon becomes the present of tomorrow, and the past of the day after. In a constantly changing world, it is essential that each day you set the groundwork for a promising future by meeting the demands of new conditions and new situations. To the extent that your accomplishments each day are worthwhile, to that extent the days ahead can be more rewarding. In the years to come you will become more and more aware that for you too "The Past is Prologue."

EDWARD R. KOLEVZON
Principal

Our modern, highly technical civilization has produced mechanical wonders which we all enjoy. Everyone likes to sit and watch a good movie, see a good television show, listen to a good radio program. We all like to watch a good ball game or listen to the broadcast. Some of us even like to read a good book.

All of these are legitimate and worthwhile forms of recreation and desirable attributes of modern living. Everyone should listen, watch, read, observe.

However, the thought has been expressed by critics of our times that we are becoming a spectator people, that we are becoming too content to sit back and let the other fellow direct our thinking, mould our ideas, and shape our destiny.

There are serious implications here for the thinking boy or girl. First, the democracy we so highly regard will be an empty thing indeed if based on the passive and acquiescent vote of a nation of spectators. Second, the subtle and dangerous effects of propaganda on a people more and more conditioned to passive acceptance is an increasing menace to our way of life. And lastly, as individuals, we may be losing much that our ancestors had from life—in spite of their more limited sphere—a feeling of self-reliance, the thrill that comes from personal achievement, a sense of the dignity of the individual, a feeling of oneness with God.

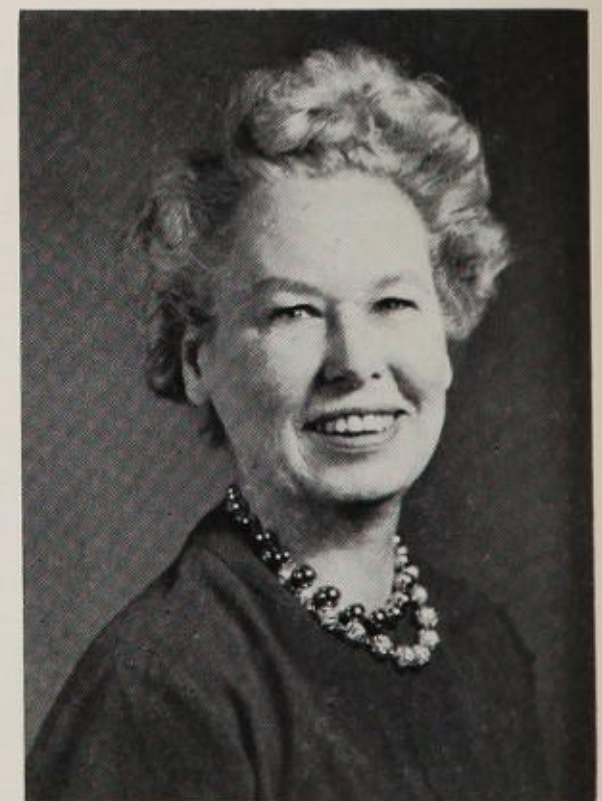

EDWIN J. BROWNE
Administrative Assistant

High on the list of desired goals today is "security." We want job security, financial security, retirement security. Yet even a casual reading of the daily newspaper reminds us that there is no such thing as guaranteed security. Unforeseen catastrophes resulting from human errors, mechanical failures, the force of nature, conflicts between nations, and other causes can wipe out our planned-for security completely.

We hope that you who are leaving Columbus in 1963 will not turn away from job offerings because they do not contain built-in security clauses. Especially in your first job experiences, whether now or upon completion of your college education, choose your work for its challenge, its opportunities for service, its satisfactions. Do not be afraid to accept a job which offers a chance for unusual experiences by which you can widen your horizons and deepen your understanding. We trust that you will continue to develop your abilities and skills. At the same time, you must strengthen your own convictions and beliefs, and formulate your philosophy of life.

May each of you be prepared to accept your full responsibilities as adult citizens, interested not only in your own personal "security" but in the task of securing the benefits of freedom and peace for all men everywhere.

THE LANDLUBBING SEAGULL: A Fable For Seniors About To Face The Cruel World

There was a snowy white sea-gull floating on the calm surface of a river far from his ocean haunts. One day a group of seagulls, who had come flying in over land during a bad storm, discovered him paddling around in the river just like a duck. The seagulls sensing he had not just flown in for the storm and sensing that he might be an odd duck went down to see if they could save him from whatever folly he might be in, for this group of gulls was very good at sensing other people's follies. With a great flurry of wings and great dignity the group settled down on the river's surface to rescue this misguided gull, for by now they were sure he was misguided. He seemed to be a good gull at heart, and would probably be quite easy to save.

"Friend gull, why do swim around on the river like a duck?"

"Because I like it better; it's much easier than bucking the high waves and wind. Here all is peace and calm. I have time to meditate."

Realizing the seriousness of his case they managed to repress the twitters (yes, twitters! I have made a careful study of bird laughter and seagulls twitter) twitters of amazed amusement.

"I understand your point," said an elderly female gull, "but this just isn't done. Why it's our tradition. I've never heard of it before."

"Obviously you don't understand my point, madam," he courteously replied.

Now this brash answer was a little too much and the group began to sense that he not only was misguided but downright evil. They wondered why they had not seen it before; they usually could sense these things. This required severe measures so one of the oldest and hence one of the wisest gulls, who had a reputation of being very severe and who practiced all the worthwhile virtues (after all, not even he was perfect), doddered over to enlighten our friend.

"God has ordained it, that sea gulls should be sea gulls."

"How do you know?"

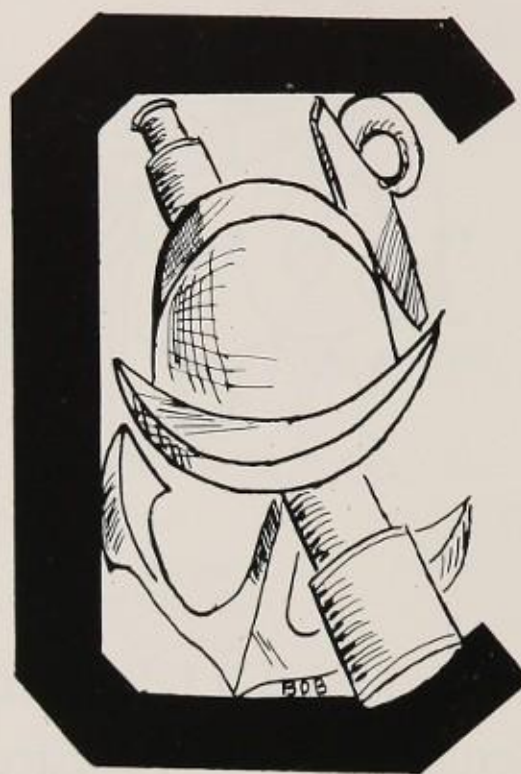

"Because it is! And since God made everything that is and destroys what He doesn't like, He must like it so." He turned and bowed to his appreciative audience, but our friend seemed unimpressed.

"Maybe it's just a habit of yours." This was too much! If he was to say God lied, then he was beyond even their heaven-inspired grace, so with a flutter of indignant wings they swooped up warning him of the danger and folly of his move.

Our friend sat on the calm river laughing at their ignorance and complacency when a hunter came out of the wood and blasted our friend out of the water, and took him home to his wife, who made our friend into a frothy duck pudding.

Moral: The world whips a non-conformist.

THE SPIRIT OF COLUMBUS

Christopher Columbus High School may be termed "une école extradinaire." Just what is it that makes C.C.H.S., as it is fondly referred to by its student body, so unique? What is it that C.C.H.S. possesses that sets it apart from other schools?

To the inexperienced eye the brown brick building, located at the junction of Astor and Colden Avenues, seems very ordinary. The fenced-in-schoolyard gives the building the appearance of any other school—perhaps even of an elementary or junior high school. Its factory—like construction can be indeed confusing to the freshie. Its structure somewhat resembles a square, but due to the fact that the higher numbers run down the middle corridor, many a frosh has been found wandering dazedly through the halls.

But there is something more which lives and thrives in Columbus. It is a spirit—the "Spirit of Columbus." It is this breath of life which enables C.C.H.S. to become an animated place of learning, rather than a shell to house students during the few hours of the school day.

This spirit is composed of the attitude of the student body plus the attitude of the faculty. Together these attitudes form a rich blend of liveliness, vehemence, and loyalty. Actually there is one teacher whose impression upon you was so forceful as to never be forgotten. Many of us will remember: Mr. Sachs on the microphone in the lunch-room; Mrs. Richards dismissing a gym class with the late bell; Mrs. Balich and her board slips; Mr. Alterman and his service aides; Mrs. Chad and her pitching arm; Mrs. Zansky's abstract remarks; Mme. Giraud's "Zoot"; Mrs. Kenny and the brief form chart; Mr. Abramson and his folksong concert; and Mr. Getz and his SAT short-cuts.

Perhaps even more pertinent will be those priceless souvenirs of Mr. Goldsmith and his marking system; Miss Imperato and her drama coaching; Mr. Hershey's pink dean's slips; Miss Conlon and her informal concerts; Mrs. Silver's free discussion periods; Mr. Molho and his contempt for review books; Mr. Melasky's frequent song bursts; Mr. Rivero and his substitution drills; and Mrs. Rosenberg's "Gobbledegook."

The rooms themselves had a certain atmosphere for each student—a flavor not to be denied. Who will ever forget the tear-flooded Dean's Office; the sulphur odor of the chem labs; the musty, special smell of the locker rooms; the food-flinging in the cafeteria; the tobacco smell of The College Office. Engraved in some crevice of our brains will be those memories of the smog-filled lavatories; the machine hum of the shops; the smell of old lunches in the Admiral office; fresh paint in the art rooms.

Anyone who has ever stepped across the threshold of the main lobby and viewed the entrance to the auditorium surrounded by the various administrative offices became part of this spirit. Now as graduation draws near, another class will depart only to be replaced by the innocent incoming freshmen and sophomore classes.

But can any person really depart from Columbus? No. For just as the memories of high school days, joyous or somber, become embedded in some part of us, to be brought to mind again by some sight or sound or odor, so it is with this Spirit of Columbus—a wreath encompassing the ideas, failures and aspirations of us and student bodies long since gone.

LARAINÉ NAVAS

THOUGHTS OF A GRADUATING SENIOR

Our senior year was a very exciting and sometimes difficult one for us. Many things were taking place in the world around us. We remember the newspaper strike when for more than three months we didn't hear about our dear friends Pogo and Dick Tracy. We listened to Vaughn Meader's "First Family" album and thought about, rather than took, the fifty-mile hike proposed by President Kennedy to prove how physically fit we were. We remember the Mona Lisa's visit to New York and the opening of the Lincoln Center.

It was a time of discovery and space exploration. Experimental rockets told us more about Venus, balloons told us more about Mars, and pictures increased our knowledge of the dark side of the moon.

There were many problems on the world front which concerned us such as England's proposed entrance into the Common Market and the Cuban crisis. We found ourselves thinking not only about the problem on the world front but those which seemed to belong to us alone.

The senior year signified a change, a growing up, and a moving onward and, we hoped, upward. It was an exciting time because we realized that when the end of June came we would be embarking on a new phase of our lives. Once out of high school we knew that we would be following a road that would bring us to our life's work. As seniors in high school we saw many roads before us. It was our job to decide which one to follow; whether to continue our education or to enter the business world. There were so many choices. Should we become secretaries, technicians, nurses, or accountants? It was really very confusing. Should we become lawyers, engineers, members of the armed forces, or whatever else the world offered?

In all cases we had to seriously reevaluate our goals and interests and choose new guide posts for the road we were to follow. As seniors we were happy and excited that we had finished four years of interesting but difficult work, and we felt a sense of accomplishment in that we had succeeded in learning something.

With the realization that we had succeeded in achieving some of our goals we felt happy. This feeling, though, lasted all too short a time because now we felt somewhat lost and set adrift. Now that we had realized our aims, where were we to go from here? Yes, we knew that we were going onward but to where? Choosing new goals and standards wasn't as easy a job as we would have liked it to be. We had to do some serious thinking. The patterns that we were setting now would help us make the transitions into the next phase of our education. They would serve us for the rest of our lives too. In looking for these new rules we had to reevaluate ourselves and our old standards. We found that the time and thought that went into solving this problem eventually led us to deeper understanding of ourselves and what we wanted out of life. And so, at the end of our senior year, we find that we have not only completed four years of learning which has given us a better understanding of the world around us, but we have also learned something about ourselves and, in the process, we have come closer to being called "Grown Up".

NAOMI KLEID

THE TRUTH ABOUT THE BEEPS

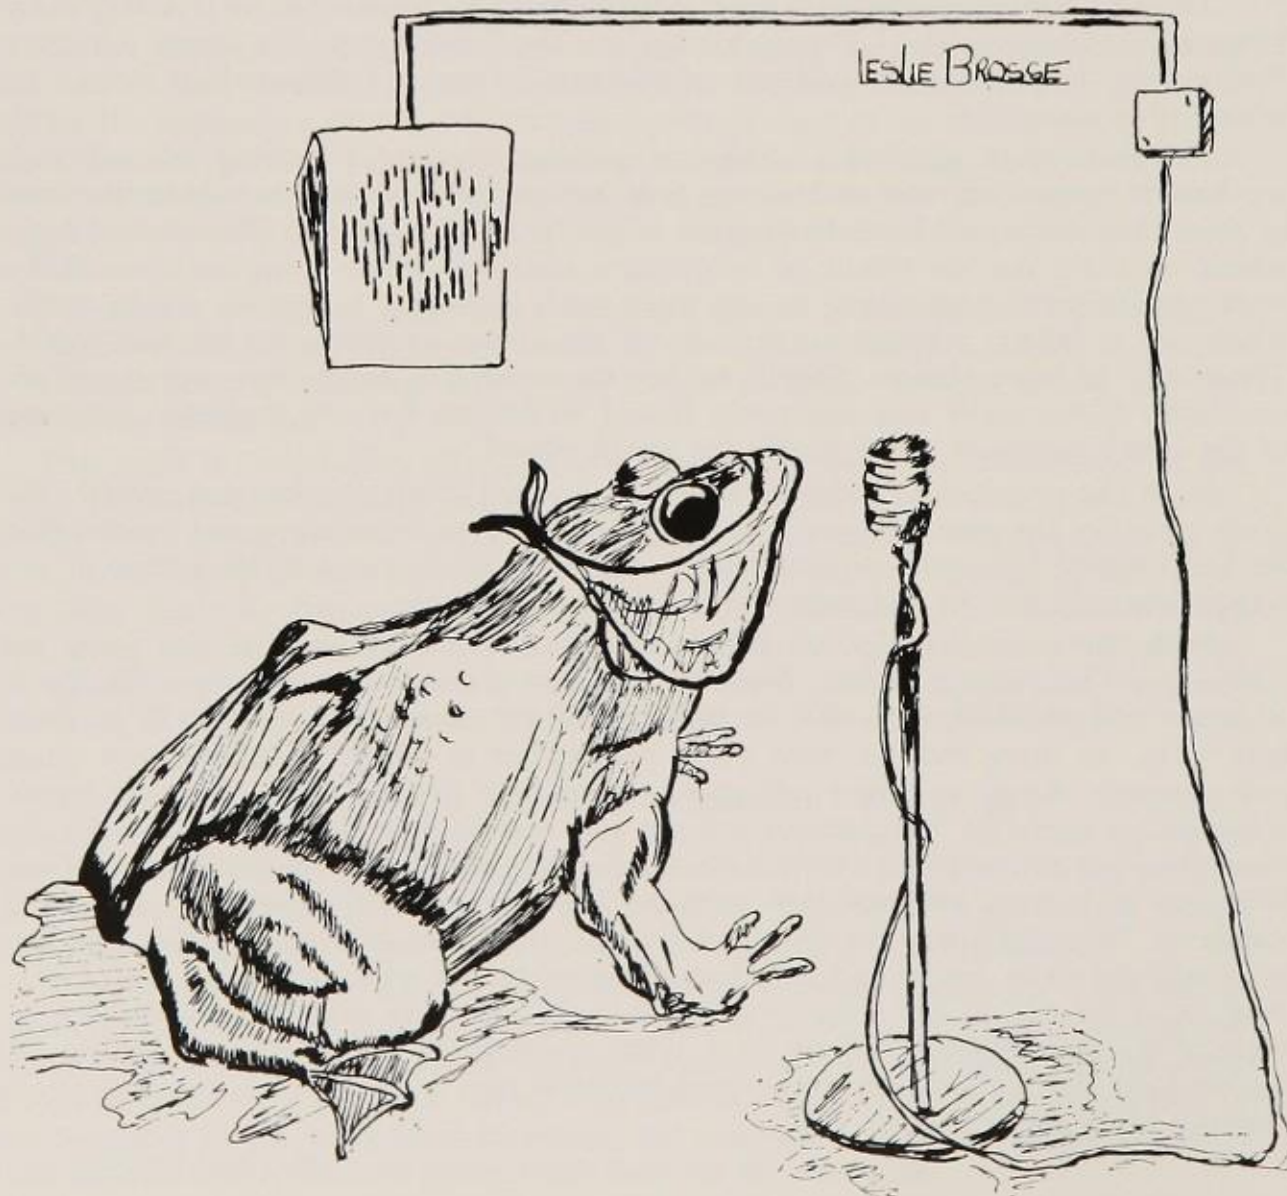

The new public address system is designed to fulfil two functions. It broadcasts, through the loud speakers in each room, the signals, musical tones (?) indicating the beginning and end of each period. It also makes possible voiced broadcasts from various parts of the building to all rooms. Announcements may be made to the entire school from the Principal's office, the office of the Administrative Assistant in Room 131, from the Auditorium stage, and from the Library. In addition, these locations, together with the Cafeteria and the Gyms have systems which permit them to be used in their respective areas independently.

There are also facilities for directing F.M. and A.M. radio broadcasts to any room in the building, for making tape recordings, and for playing them to any desired location.

Contrary to rumor, the system as set up, cannot be used to pick up conversations from the various classrooms. It was only during the testing period that this was made possible through a special hook-up.

Of course, in a system as complex as this, there are many adjustments to be made, "bugs" to be ironed out, and additional equipment to be installed. We hope that after the trial period is over, the new broadcasting system will be a definite contribution to the efficient functioning of our school.

EDWIN J. BROWNE
Administrative Assistant

TO BEEP OR NOT TO BEEP

To beep or not to beep—that is the question.

In our modern world it is no longer necessary to announce the change of subject periods with a bell. That's outdated! A more suitable substitute for this hackneyed signal is the "beep," not just an ordinary beep mind you, but a rather special one to give each period a special meaning.

Confusing? From now on the First period might begin with a high soprano beep-beep—while the end of the period will be hailed with a more subtle bass beep.

As for the second period a repetition of the first period beep would be too trite so a new signal may be invented. If this isn't possible we'll have to stick to conventional double beep for the second period. We will never forget those years of silence when the P. A. system was out of order. Nor will we forget the first day of the beep. Just in case the beeps were not in beeping order that first day, the bells were rung as well.

Ah Columbusites, disaster has struck! There will be some mad days as a sophomore girl in tears runs into her fourth period class instead of her third explaining "But I heard the boop-boop not the bong-bong! Oh what am I to do now!"

Progress is wonderful. A beep into the future! Electronic beep has come to Columbus.

Joelyn Fusco

COMMENTS HEARD ON THE INSTALLATION OF THE BEEP SYSTEM

MR. R Now I know how blessed the silence was all these months.

MISS C. It gives me the beeps. What's the difference between this and the Bronx Cheer? Until I get used to it, the beep sounds like a nasty comment on the lesson I've just taught.

MISS OLITSKY Macbeth doth murder beep.

MRS. M. Beep me no beeps.

MR. F. How will we distinguish this signal from the one used when the little men arrive from Mars?

MR. H. All of a sudden, after all this dead air, everybody will have urgent announcements to make in the middle of my recitation.

MISS M. I'm glad I'm going on leave.

MR. A. There's no fighting it. When that beep sounds, I subside at once, moving shakily to my desk to steel myself for the next beep.

MISS B. It's like a foghorn. Now if it will only lift the fog from the brains of my pupils. . . .

MR. J. Absolute beeparoni!

MISS D. Sssh! I can't tell. This is a two-way system and somebody down there doesn't like me.

MR GORDON (of course) Ah, the wounded bull.

SENIOR PLAY

On April 26, the senior play, Bye Bye Birdie, was performed in the Columbus auditorium for the seniors and their guests. In the leading roles Sandy Shaller and Marsha Weissman—who had roles in last year's senior play, Bells Are Ringing—were terrific. The part of Kim was appealingly played by Marcy Steinfeld. John Perseo was perfect in the role of the "tense" teenage rock and roll idol Conrad Birdie, but Judi Lesser stole the show in the part of Albert's domineering mother, Mae. The chorus added to the splendid performance, and with the help of Harriet Sarnier there was some very good dancing. In their supporting roles Iris Glastein, Henry Snow, Joseph Grano, Ann Rapaport, and Lily Mandel added to the comedy of Bye, Bye, Birdie.

Thanks to the efforts of Miss Beatrice Imperato we have seen the best Senior Play ever performed in Columbus. Now, when we look back to our years in Columbus this play will always be the highlight of senior activities.

BLUE LETTER DAY

Senior Day, otherwise known as Blue Letter Day, was held in our school on April 2, 1963. Columbus seniors came to school that day (dressed in blue or in various gay costumes) to celebrate their status as the graduating class.

During the morning, seniors took over classes with the consent of their teachers. At twelve o'clock the seniors went down to the cafeteria where Marcy Steinfeld, Marsha Weissman, and others entertained with several melodies from the forthcoming Senior Play.

A half an hour later the seniors left the cafeteria and went to the boys' gym where the afternoon's activities, supervised by Mr. Cohen, were to be held. A contest followed for the best decorated senior hat by a boy and girl. First prizes were taken by Stephen Light and Louise Yetter. Entertainment came next with Robert Langer as a very funny Master of Ceremonies. The Knights furnished the music to which Marcy Steinfeld, Susan Weissman and Marsha Weissman sang several numbers. Later, Jay Palefsky and Iris Glasstein won a cha cha contest and Elliot Schattner and Judy Carmichael were found to be the best twisters in Columbus. Costumes were divided into several categories and judged by the wise teachers of Columbus. Lloyd Putter, Michael Itzkowitz, and Cynthia Singer received first prize as the most original for their depiction of Peter, Paul, and Mary. Henry Snow and Sharon Auster were the funniest boy and girl present and Lois Greene and Dianne Goldschlag won as the prettiest.

Although Blue Letter Day is now over, it was another wonderful part of senior festivities never to be forgotten.

BLUE LETTER DAY

ON THE NATURE OF SCHOOLS

The efficiency of the polynomial nomenclature system of biological classification, as well as the universality of the theory of evolution, has been adequately demonstrated by the successful application of both—to zoos and schools. In zoos, the biologists, botanists, and zoologists have studied and classified numerous plant and animal life forms. In schools, psychologists, sociologists, and anthropologists (using classification, evolution, and experimental data) have recently conducted an intensive preliminary investigation into the nature of students and teachers—their inherited characteristics, general environment, natural habitat, acquired characteristics, attitudes, and intellectual evolution in relation to their various types and subclasses. The results of these exacting researches are presented below.

CLASSIFICATION OF STUDENTS

Kingdom—Animals

Remarks: True.

Phylum—Chordates

Remarks: No comment.

Subphylum—Vertebrates (tentative)

Remarks: There was considerable controversy over this classification between two opposed schools of thought among the researchers. The biologists classified the student as a vertebrate because he is born with a backbone. The sociologists, however, wished to classify him as an invertebrate because the student is notoriously known for his spinelessness and slouching posture when seated at a school desk. An inherited backbone, they further contended, constituted a superficial a priori generalization, while only an a posteriori inductive empiricism could be applied to said student. This conflict between hereditary and environmental factors has not yet been resolved.

Class—Mammalia

Remarks: This fact is made alarmingly if charmingly clear by current styles in adolescent fashions.

Order—Primates

Remarks: An amazing resemblance was discovered between some throwback students and the more intelligent anthropoid apes. It was found that the latter, as expected, were political anachronisms, supporting repeal of social security, the income tax amendment, the Sherman Anti-trust Act, child labor laws, and compulsory education. But, the former surpassed the apes' moderate social Darwinism by advocating a complete return to nature! Why even the monkeys, as witnessed by their residence in our zoos, don't believe in that bunk anymore! Nevertheless, it has been firmly established that these young reactionary anarchists do infiltrate our schools with their great faith in the birch tree—their symbol of nature.

Family—Hominidae

Remarks: Schools consist usually of one big, "happy" family called the student body. It is truly a shame that the same cannot be said of zoos where the animals are kept penned up in separate compartments in order to prevent their getting at each other.

Genus—Homo

Remarks: Doubtful

Species: Sapiens

Remarks: Sap.

Variety—Females and Males

Remarks: "Love and marriage, horse and carriage, and you can't have one without the other"; ever see a more matriarchal society?

CLASSIFICATION OF TEACHERS

Because of the furor and controversy surrounding this issue, the members of this committee thought it best to say as little as possible. We must, however, present a brief resume of the subject: The teachers wish to be classified as pros, but the Board of Education insists on calling them cons.

ARISTA

This year, under the leadership of our new advisor, Mrs. Chad, Arista has greatly expanded its activities. Arista still constitutes less than four percent of the total school body and has as its requirements an eighty-five percent average for two consecutive terms, ten percent outstanding character ratings, and five points of service credit during each of those two terms. These standards must be maintained throughout membership.

The increased attendance at our bi-annual inductions can be attributed to the dignified and impressive ceremonies and the warm reception which follows. The assembly stimulates the prestige which Arista lends to the school. This past year we have had two wonderful social events honoring our new members. Further honors bestowed on members include a certificate, and "Arista" stamped on their record cards.

Arista has added many new activities to its agenda. We have initiated a plan for monthly activities which has met with great success. The senior members took a trip to Washington during the Easter vacation. This is a first for our society, and we hope to make it an annual event. The purpose of these social events is to enable members to get to know one another, to meet people with similar interests, and to create greater unity within our large organization.

As this year draws to an end, we look back with fond remembrance on the experiences, on the warm friendships we have established, and on the growth of our society. It has been an honor to serve such a fine organization and such a wonderful advisor.

College	I'll go to Yale	Syracuse is a good school.	N. Y. U. is pretty good.	I'll work and go at night.
Clubs	I'll join five	Only one this year	I'm too busy	If I join, I can put it on my college application
Cafeteria	A hunting ground for seniors	I wonder what the food tastes like?	I'm so hungry and the food is just wonderful!	Ugh! Give it to the freshman
Homework	I'll do all the extra assignments	I'll do all the regular assignments	I'll just miss a few	Homework?
Report Cards	I'll get a 95 average	80 isn't bad	All right, I failed two out of five—so what?	Who is a good forger
Seniors	Help!	They're not so big	I wonder what I'll wear on Blue letter Day?	Magnificent specimens
Gym	I'll get a check every week	I'll put chalk on my sneakers and iron my dirty gymsuit	I can be unprepared twice	They never fail seniors
Teachers	Very understanding	Some are all right	They have a right to be grouchy they're underpaid	Never have so few done so much to so many

ACCOLADES FOR THE CLASS OF '63

In many ways our graduating class has made an enviable record—in service, in extra-curricular activities, in scholarship. It is impossible in one article to honor everyone or to note the many services to teachers, to our clerks, to fellow students. All we can do is point out a few highlights.

Alan Rossiter, first in our graduating class, appropriately starts the listing. He is Columbus' first winner of a National Merit Scholarship and perhaps our first student admitted to Yale. In addition, he has a scholarship to Yale. Alan's brother, John, a former graduate, is on a full scholarship at law school after graduating from Syracuse with honors. And by the way, speaking of former graduates, this was Anne Bancroft's year, too, with her Oscar for best actress of the year.

Let's take a look at some of the schools and scholarships our students have qualified for in 1963.

Alfred U.	Harold Magalnick
Barnard	Roberta Cohen, Cheryl Rossum
Clark U.	Florence Lotrowski
Colgate	Ira Haspel (full scholarship)
Columbia	Stephen Victor
Hamilton	David Sansone (scholarship)
Harpur	Namoi Kleid, Constance Reinhardt, Stephen Victor, Daniel and Harold Magalnick
Lafayette	Ira Haspel (scholarship)
Marietta	Robert Goldman
Michigan State	Michael Weiner
U. of Pennsylvania	Warren Levine
Penn State	Morris Frommer
U. of Pittsburgh	Edward Pshedesky, Marc Weisenfreund
R.P.I.	Alan Epstein, Michael Heidt (scholarship), Edward Pshedesky, Michael Cohen, David Atlas, Richard Carone
Stevens	Michael Heidt
Syracuse	Rebecca Zelmanowicz
Temple	Raymond Weitz
Union	David Sansone

Washington U.	Florence Lotrowski
William Smith	Cheryl Rossum
Wittenberg	Linda Mets (scholarship)
Notre Dame	Rocco Vignola
Bennington	Cheryl Rossum
Cooper Union	David Atlas, Susan Seader

Felix Poelz won a full tuition scholarship to L.I.U., Leslie Schiller has a scholarship at the Baruch School, and David Diamond has a Dean's Scholarship in Architecture at Pratt. We are also heavily represented in the State Colleges of New York State, literally dozens of our graduates flying the family coop.

This year, the Mayor's Committee Awards for Scholastic Achievement go to Elaine Billig, Stephanie King, Barbara Berger, Albert Blau, Roberta Cohen, Michael Heidt, Elaine Kessler, Richard Lehrburger, Harold Magalnick, Riva Massow, Alan Rossiter, Cheryl Rossum, and Ann Schaaf.

We also have three Generoso Pope Awards and Scholarships to Susan Basista, Diane Formosa and Ann Schaaf.

In addition to Alan Rossiter, our National Merit Finalist and Winner, we had seven National Merit Letters of Commendation: Deborah Brecher, Katherine Dean, Peter Fidelman, Barry Kramer, Florence Lotrowski, Felix Poelz, and Edward Pshedesky.

Finally, the Class of '63 showed the largest number of Regents Scholarship Winners and Alternates in the history of Columbus. Many of our Alternates will also receive the full Regents Scholarships. For the first time in Anchor we would like to honor these Regents winners.

Regents Scholarship Winners

Arnstein, Jeffrey	Levine, Warren
Atlas, David	Lotrowski, Florence
Becker, Richard	Massow, Riva
Brecher, Deborah	Pappas, Leonard
Carone, Richard	Parley, Michael
Clouse, James	Poelz, Felix

Hazelton, Janet	Vogel, Richard
Herzberg, Mark	Wassner, Bruce
Kaminsky, Fred	Weinberg, Martin
Kaplan, Carl	Weisenfreund, Marc

Michael Parley was also listed for a Regents Scholarship for a child of a veteran and Florence Lotrowski for a Nursing Scholarship. Alternates in Nursing were: Marlene Feldman, Dianne Goldschlag, Iris Grayson, Virginia Voltura, and Linda Wertkin.

Of course we've missed many who received unusual awards, but certainly this gives you an idea of the scholarship potential of the class of '63. Hail and Farewell!

Our Hats off to you.

OUR SCHOOL AIDES

Another innovation in Columbus we will remember as having started in our last term. It is the presence in our huge building of "School Aides."

Twelve men and women constitute our first staff of assistants to help make Columbus a better place to live and learn.

The idea is simple and effective. Certain chores in the building like hall patrol, cafeteria and study hall can be handled by people who are not teachers. Teachers relieved from these building assignments can use this extra time in various jobs connected with their subjects.

First reports from students, teachers and the aides themselves indicate success. Students have become aware that these people are part of our staff and are working for the welfare of all of us. The aides are very anxious to be of service and they report that they too, are receiving an education—in high school manners, language and dress!

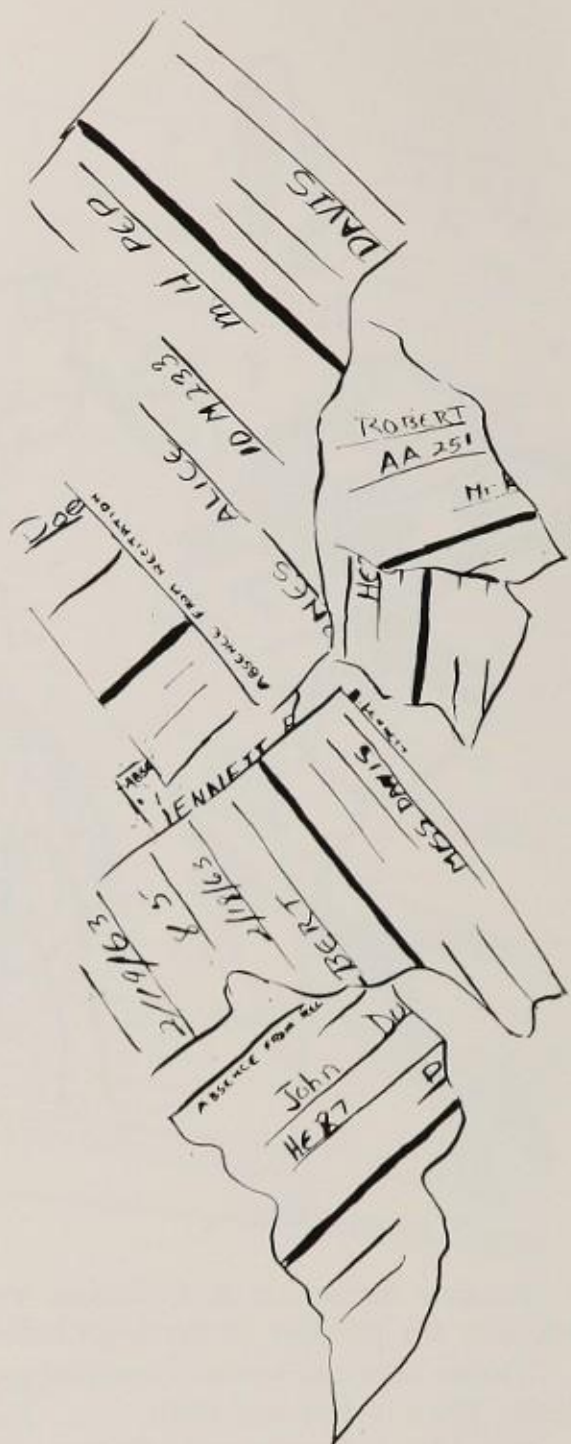

Here are the names of our first school aides:

Mr. Armerino
 Mr. Baranin
 Mr. Lennon
 Mrs. Levitz
 Mr. Makela
 Mr. Margarita
 Mrs. Pallay
 Mrs. Schechter
 Mrs. Schulman
 Mrs. Solomon
 Mr. Weissmuller
 Mrs. Zientz

CUTCARDS

I wandered lonely as a cloud
 Of smoke that from the bathroom goes
 When all at once I saw a cloud
 Of cutcards piled—rows on rows.
 Across a hall, right to a room
 Where waiting was the senior's doom
 Continuous as the stars that shine
 and twinkle on the milky way,
 The seniors stretched in winding line
 Around the room, three times I'd say.
 Twenty-seven saw I on the line extensive
 Shaking their heads in manners pensive
 The freshman aides around them danced
 At the mighty seniors' plight
 And as the winding line advanced
 They searched for signs of fright;
 But bravely the Seniors stood their ground
 And waited patiently without a sound
 Now oft, when in a class I sleep
 And dream on things that I could pen,
 The melancholy of this scene keeps
 Returning to my thoughts again.
 And then my heart has pity for
 These seniors on the line once more

THE GRADUATES' PICTURES: A Guide

Following the name and address of each graduate you will find the course pursued (and sometimes caught up with), college, if any, and life work or career. In the next few lines we list school activities only. This is followed by any Columbus awards or honors. Finally, we list two "outside of school" activities.

For a few students we have nothing but name, address and course. This may be because graduate was (a) too shy, (b) indifferent, (c) unable to get his questionnaire in on time. We asked for four activities; some of you listed ten, so we had to do the selecting for you. Likewise with the two activities outside of school. Note that the teams listed in the last line or two are NOT Columbus teams. Because we don't always know what kind of private club you belong to or what you do at these "club" meetings, we ignored these items. Since almost everyone who took the Regents Scholarship Exam did receive a Scholar Incentive Award we did not list it.

Well, we have the usual run of schools and vocations—accountants, clerks, doctors, teachers. If you look carefully, however, you will find that many of our students are going to small colleges in the West and Far West. Under vocations we did not include a certain number of "unknowns", "housewives", "mothers" or the usual corny "make money." We also omitted such outside school activities as "girls", "collect pictures of Ben Casey", and "Volunteer-patient in a mental hospital." On the whole, your questionnaires were honest and good, and in the pages that follow we tried to do you justice.
